SYNTHETIC DEMO DOCUMENT — NOT A REAL TENDER

Illustrative Tender Notice

Example procurement notice created only to test the Tender Document Copilot. All organisations, IDs, amounts, dates and requirements below are fictional.

1. Tender particulars

2. Earnest Money Deposit (EMD)

For this fictional exercise only, the EMD is INR 10,000. The amount is shown to test document question-answering; it must not be treated as a real procurement requirement.

3. Eligibility requirements

The bidder must provide proof of registration and a signed declaration that the bidder can deliver the listed equipment.

For the purposes of this synthetic example, the minimum average annual turnover is INR 20,00,000 over the previous three financial years.

The bidder must demonstrate at least two completed supply contracts of similar equipment during the previous five years. This is fictional test content.

The illustrative checklist includes: company registration proof, signed bid form, technical compliance sheet, turnover certificate, similar-work completion evidence and the EMD proof.

5. Technical scope

The fictional order consists of 20 desktop computer sets with monitors, installation at the buyer location, one operator orientation session and a 12-month warranty.

6. Submission and verification

Bids must be submitted before 30 November 2026 at 3:00 PM IST in this example. This date is deliberately fictional test data and must not be used as an actual deadline.

This document contains no official portal URL, no real buyer and no valid tender reference. It is meant only to test extraction, retrieval, page citations and the behaviour when a question is not answered in the document.
